

THE POPULAR TICKET

However you may like the ticket nominated at St. Louis, or however you may like the one to be nominated at Chicago, there is no doubt that the "popular ticket" is the one we ticket our goods with for the

Special Friday Sale

Following is that ticket for this week:
Black & White Frenches at 75c. never before sold for less than $1.25.
Century Cloth Wrappers, in light colors, for $1.95, worth $2.50.
Special display of Muslin Drawers at great bargains.
A few more of these tickets left from 50c to $1.50, worth $1.50 to $2.75.
White Goods, in plaids and lace stripes, at 12 1/2c, worth 25c.
A $5 Imported Marcelline Spread at $3.50.
A White Crochet Spread at 50c, worth $1.25.
Ladies' Embroidered Handkerchiefs at 15c each, worth 30c.
Embroideries for ladies' and children's dresses at very low prices.
The largest and best assortment of Sash Ribbons we have ever shown, from $1 to $1.75 a yard.
Jersey fitted Ribbed Vests 20c and 25c, worth 35c and 50c.
Gentlemen's genuine French Shirts and Drawers, worth $2.50, for $1.
Ladies' Fancy Hosiery, regular make, 12 1/2c, cheap at 25c.
Ladies' fancy colored, plain and black Hosiery at 25c, worth 45c.
Children's black French ribbed regular make Hosiery 12 1/2c to 25c, worth 20c to 45c.
Black Lace Mitts at 10c, cheap at 25c.
Box Soap, 3 cakes, 10c, worth 25c.

L. S. AYRES &amp; CO

COMMITTEES

FOR THE PURCHASE OF ## ORGANS

FOR CHURCHES,

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS,

PUBLIC SCHOOLS,

LODGE ROOMS,

GRAND ARMY POSTS, ETC.,

Should call on or write to us. We make a specialty of this branch of the business, and offer inducements which cannot be obtained elsewhere.

D. H. BALWDIN &amp; CO

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Decker Brothers, Haines Brothers, Fischer and other Pianos, and ESTEY and SINGER'S Sewing Machines.

Parties at a distance desiring bargains should not fail to write for fuller descriptions.

RE-TUNING and REPAIRING a specialty. Orders for moving given promptly attention.

95, 97 and 99 N. Pennsylvania St., Indianapolis

Amateur Photographers

And all persons seeking an instructive as well as interesting pastime can find the best variety of OUTFITS and Photographic Stock at the Art Emporium of

H. LIEBER &amp; CO

82 East Washington St.

NO PLATINGS, but instruments with which first-class work can be done, at a price within reach of everyone.

POEMS

CLOTH BOUND

35 CENTS EACH

Byron, Eliot,
Tupper, Meredith,
Goethe, Milton,
Ingelow, Kingsley,
Whittier, Lucile.

For Sale by

THE BOWEN-MERRILL CO

16 and 18 West Washington Street.

The New York Store

(Established 1853.)

JUST OPENED

A NEW LINE OF

Stamped Linens

Doylies,
Table Scarfs,
Splashes,
Tray Cloths,
Bureau Covers, Etc

PRICES IN PLAIN FIGURES

PETTIS, BASSETT &amp; CO

A Club for Women Only.

A number of well-known ladies of this city have been for some time perfecting an organization whose object is the construction and maintaining of a woman's club-house, and articles of incorporation will be filed to-day with the following incorporators: May Wright Sewall, Margaret D. Chisholm, Elizabeth V. Pierce, Helen B. Holman, Mary N. Walcott, Harriet M. Foster and Carrie F. Milligan. The organization is not limited in membership to any of the existing clubs; but its stock can be held by women only. The stock is limited to $15,000, in shares of $25 each. The corporate name is the Indianapolis Propriety, and its objects are thus stated in the articles: "To promote and encourage literary and scientific purposes, and to buy, hold, mortgage and sell real estate, and, in particular, to acquire and hold by purchase, or otherwise, real estate, and to erect, thereon, and duly furnish, equip and maintain, a suitable building to be rented and used for literary, artistic, scientific, industrial, musical, mechanical and educational purposes, or public and private meetings; and thus to provide a center of cultivation for the public, and particularly the women of Indianapolis, Ind."

Col. Cumback to Deliver a Lecture on Oliver P. Morton.

At Portsmouth, O., the Republicans have beautiful club-rooms, and have had for two years or more. They named their club after Indiana's greatest statesman, O. P. Morton, and have a large lithograph of Gov. Morton in the reception-room. They have invited Col. W. P. Cumback to address the club at any time that will suit his convenience, taking Gov. O. P. Morton as his subject. Col. Cumback has accepted the invitation, and will prepare a eulogy to be delivered at a time to be fixed hereafter.

Office desks at Wm. L. Elder's.

SUBJECTS OF THE DOCTORS

Members of the Indiana Medical Society

Hear Several Interesting Papers.

An Uncommon Disease Is Brought To Their Attention—The Sons of Veterans and Knights of Pythias Close Their Sessions.

DOINGS OF THE DOCTORS.

A Remarkable Case of Pseudo-Hypertrophy Reported to the Society.

The closing session of the Indiana Medical Society was held yesterday. Owing to the banquet the night previous the morning session was not called to order until a late hour. In the absence of both the president and vice-president Dr. E. S. Elder, the secretary, presided. The committee on nominations made the following report: President, Dr. William H. Wishard; vice-president, Dr. Albert G. Porter, Lebanon; treasurer, Dr. C. R. Higgins, Peru; Secretary, Dr. E. S. Elder, Indianapolis; assistant secretary, Dr. C. H. Light, Madison. During the morning papers were read by Dr. W. O. Menendhall, of Richmond, on "Typhoid Fever"; Dr. V. M. W. Swarts, of Auburn, on "Therapeutics of Small Poxes"; Dr. J. W. Compton, of Evansville, on "Ante-partum Hemorrhage," and Dr. W. B. Ryan, of Willow Branch, on "Pseudo-hypertrophic Muscular Paralysis."

The paper of Dr. Ryan was one of the most interesting of the convention. He introduced to the society a family, consisting of father, mother and three sons, from Hancock, Ind. The children were affected with the peculiar disease, called by the subject of Dr. Ryan's paper—pseudo-hypertrophic muscular paralysis—a disease very uncommon, and not until within the last half century described in medical works. It seems that the grandfather of the children suffered from a fall at a certain time in his life, which produced some kind of a nervous disorganization. His children were perfectly free from anything like an inheritance of his disease, but it comes out in his grandchildren. The three present at the convention were all affected, the youngest about four or five years of age, the next the least, and the oldest sixteen years of age, was almost helpless, having hardly any control over his motory muscles. The disease is a progressive one, and nothing has been discovered as yet by the medical fraternity that will arrest it. The sensory nerves and nerves of special sense are normal, while the motory nerves are gradually losing their power. At the same time the trophic fibres seem to be doing an excited duty, developing the muscles to an extraordinary degree. The minds of all the patients are remarkably clear and the temper is unimpaired. The family is now being treated at the Surgical Institute here for some time without effect. Although the case is regarded as an extraordinary one, and the society was much interested in it, Dr. Ryan will be made of the patients and a full history of the case given in the society's proceedings. A collection was taken up to defray the expenses of bringing the family to the city, as they are in limited circumstances.

The committee on ethics reported in favor of recommitting Dr. Peter Drayner, of Blackfoot, county, to the committee on the laws of the society hereafter. The case against Dr. A. B. Bradbury, of Delaware county, was referred back to the medical society of that county for settlement. The case of Dr. J. C. Wayne, of Wayne county, was re-stated, and the Wayne County Medical Society took an appeal to the American Medical Society in the matter. In the case of Dr. C. R. Higgins, of Allen county, against Dr. W. H. Myers, of the same county, the committee reported in favor of Dr. Myers.

Papers were read in the afternoon by Dr. J. O. Sullivan on "Reflex Phenomena in Relation to Eye Diseases," by Dr. J. J. Hamilton on "What Shall We Do in Cases of Laryngeal Stenosis?" and by Dr. J. F. Froelich on "Treatment of Phthisis." At the conclusion of the programme the society adjourned to meet on the first Wednesday in next May. This has been the most successful meeting the society has ever had. The attendance has been far beyond that of any other meeting and the occasion one of the most profitable as well as pleasant in its history. A telegram of sympathy was sent during the day to Dr. Sexton, a former president of the society, who is at Cincinnati having a dangerous and severe surgical operation performed on him. The committee on necrology also reported a suitable memorial for the members who have died in the last year. The manufacturing chemists and makers of apparatus, who have been exhibiting their wares to the members during the convention, yesterday presented to Dr. Rowe, of the committee on arrangements, an elegant gold watch-chain in recognition of the kind treatment he had accorded them during the convention.

COMPLETED THEIR BUSINESS.

Sons of Veterans, After Electing Officers and National Delegates, Adjourn.

The Sons of Veterans completed their work in a shorter space of time than they expected, and adjourned sine die yesterday afternoon. In the forenoon the reports of the committees appointed to investigate the annual reports of the officers were received. It was determined to take active measures for increasing the membership of the society in this State, and in assisting the national organization in spreading branches of the order all over the North and West. The selection of Hon. Charles F. Griffin as delegate-at-large to the National Encampment, was considered a fortunate one, and a number of the Indiana boys are in favor of urging him for commander-in-chief.

The election of officers occurred in the afternoon, with the following result:

Colonel—E. S. Walker, of West Lebanon.
Lieutenant-colonel—C. W. Wain, of Union City.
Major—W. A. Seward, of Russell.
Division Counsel—Horace Weaver, W. S. McCoy and C. H. Page.
Delegates to National Encampment—Hon. Charles F. Griffin, Secretary of State, delegate-at-large; Dr. W. Wood, Anderson; George Behler, Garrett, and C. C. Harvey, Danville; Alexander—Frederick Garrison, Winchester; Wm. H. Hanchey, Richmond, and Harry O. Rhodes, Greencastle.

The new officers were installed by Past Adjutant-General T. G. Carlisle, of Fortiaria, O., who made a pleasant speech in connection with the ceremony. General Carlisle also took occasion to thank the Indiana Sons of Veterans for the handsome award they presented to him. Many of the delegates returned home on the early afternoon trains, but many remained over for the dance given at Tomlinson Hall last night, which proved a very enjoyable affair.

Invited to Indianapolis.

The Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, finished its business yesterday, and adjourned early in the afternoon. The morning session was taken up with routine matters. The only action of importance was the passage of a resolution instructing H. H. Francis and S. P. Oyler, the representatives to the Supreme Lodge from this State, to invite the Supreme Lodge to its next biennial session in Indianapolis, and to also make an effort to have the national headquarters of the order moved to this city. A constitutional amendment, restoring six months' terms of office in subordinate lodges, was offered, but it was referred, after being discussed at length. In the afternoon the newly-elected grand officers were installed according to the impressive ceremonies of the order.

Foremothers' Day.

To the Suffrage Association of Indiana: Inasmuch as during the present year we hope to secure municipal suffrage for women, it is necessary that we agitate our cause of equal suffrage thoroughly throughout the State. I would, therefore, recommend that the coming Fourth of July be generally celebrated as "Foremothers' day," under the auspices of women. To this end I commend the following programme, to be varied as local circumstances may require. The reading of the Declaration of 1776, to be followed by the "New Declaration." These documents can be secured from the Women's Union and the Women's Tribune. The reading of Elizabeth Cady Stanton's recent address before the United States Senate committee on "The Constitutional Right of Women to the Ballot." Addresses by "The Pioneer Workers," "The Home Vote," and the "Woman's Vote." "Municipal Government," "Present Status of the Woman Question," "Popular Objections to Woman's Suffrage." Answered, "Should be made." Toasts upon "The Press," "Our Bless the Gentlemen," "Our Country," "Our Forefathers," "Our Foremothers," and short addresses by prominent local speakers should be interspersed. If possible, have a brass band upon the grounds. Singing of the woman suffrage songs, found on the leaflets published by the Women's Journal, and furnished for 15 cents per hundred, will add to the pleasure of the occasion. Have petitions for municipal suffrage circulated, and woman suffrage literature generously distributed. All railroads grant reduced rates on the Fourth of July, and it is greatly to be regretted that the people together. Let advertising be generously done. HELEN M. GOUGH, President I. N. W. S. A. Press of the State, please copy.

PHASES OF LITIGATION.

Another Demand Made for Money Appropriated for Railroad Purposes.

The litigation in which the Indianapolis, Decatur & Springfield Railroad Company, Marion county and Center township were interested was thought to be forever settled until yesterday, when the railroad company, now the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western, renewed it by bringing suit in the Superior Court to recover $20,000, which it alleges is still due it from Center township. The case has quite a history. When the Indiana & Illinois Central railroad proposed to build a line leading west from this city the County Commissioners were petitioned to appropriate $65,000 for Center township to aid in building the line. The question was submitted to a vote of the people, and with the understanding that the shops of the road were to be located in the township the money was appropriated. After the money was collected it was paid over to the general county fund and expended in other ways than that for which it was intended, by the County Commissioners. The railroad was built, but the shops were located in Wayne township, instead of in Center, although near the line. Both Center township and the railroad company brought suit for the money. The case was tried before Judge Howe and a judgment was rendered in favor of the railroad company for $20,000. The case was taken to the Supreme Court and about a year ago the decision of Judge Howe was reversed, and a judgment was rendered in favor of the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western, the successor of the Indiana & Illinois Central road, for $85,355.17, less the amount of $17,122, which the County Commissioners showed they had paid to the railroad company soon after the money was put into their hands. The deduction was made through an agreement between the I. D. & W. and the County Commissioners, and at the time was perfectly satisfactory. The new company now comes forward and claims that it cannot be bound by the agreement of the old I. D. & W., and asks the court to set aside the judgment. Some interest has accrued, and a judgment is asked for $20,000. The county attorney does not believe the case will be decided in its favor. The money. The case will not come up for trial until the September term of court.

Death of an Outcast.

The frequenters of the police station who almost weekly for the last two years have seen Michael Stevens, a disheveled man with gray hair and tottering form, brought in for drunkenness, were not surprised yesterday morning when he was found dead on a vacant lot near the corner of Kentucky avenue and Mississippi street. In the afternoon she was seen under the influence of liquor, and disipation no doubt had been the cause of her death. She was the mother of a happy family, but whisky made her an outcast who knew no home but the street and the prison.

Before the Criminal Judge.

In the Criminal Court, yesterday, Lizzie Thomas, charged with stealing a dress from a woman with whom she was working, was tried, and the judge took the case under advisement. Cornelius McCarthy, a tramp printer, pleaded guilty to stealing a revolver from the station house, and in a long speech into which he introduced some Shakespearean quotations, pleaded with the judge to allow him to go on his good behavior. The judge took the punishment under advisement until to-day.

A Wife Seeking Damages.

Nancy E. Mitchell, the widow of Robert Mitchell, as the administratrix of his estate, has brought suit in the Superior Court against the Chicago, St. Louis & Pittsburgh Railroad Company for $7,000 damages, on account of the killing of her husband last August. He was employed in repairing a car, when it fell on and killed him instantly. Damages are demanded on the ground that the machinery used in hoisting the car was worn out.

Notes from the Courts.

Thomas Gray, a farmer of Washington township, was declared insane, last evening, by a jury. He is a man of about 60 years of age. His mind has been gradually failing for some time. The trial of the damage suit of George R. Root against the city and the Union Railway Company had to be suspended yesterday on account of the sickness of William Farney, one of the jurors. The case will probably be resumed to-day.

Calvin Monroe has instituted suit against Homer Franklin for $1,000 damages on account of wronging his daughter, Franklin's wife, on another charge arising out of the case, and brought before Squire Smock, who sent him to jail on his failure to give bail.

Hugh Russell, the Bloomington-street board-house keeper, arrested Monday, for stealing $65 from Fremont Murphy, a Texas stock dealer, waived examination before the Mayor, yesterday morning, and was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The Court Record.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Room 1—Hon. N. B. Taylor, Judge.

Elizabeth L. Dean vs. Patrick Dean et al.; report. Finding and judgment for plaintiff for $63.80 and household goods.

Room 2—Hon. D. W. Howe, Judge.

Geo. R. Root vs. City of Indianapolis and Union Railway Company; damages. On trial by jury.

NEW SUITS FILED.

Geo. F. Hanck vs. John Hanck; complaint on note. Demand, $1,000.

Calvin Monroe vs. Homer Franklin; complaint for damages. Demand, $1,000.

The Indianapolis, Decatur & Western Railway Company vs. Center township; suit on contract. Demand, $20,000.

Minnie M. Robinson vs. Lewis Robinson; complaint for divorce. Allegation, abandonment.

Henry E. Mitchell, administrator of the estate of Robert Mitchell, vs. Chicago, St. Louis & Pittsburgh Railroad Company; complaint for damages. Demand, $7,000.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Hon. William Irvin, Judge.

State vs. Lizzie Thomas; petit larceny. Trial by court. Under advisement.

State vs. Cornelius McCarthy; petit larceny. Pleading guilty. Under advisement by court.

TO ADVANCE REPUBLICAN INTERESTS.

The Tippecanoe Club Proposes to Go to the Chicago Convention.

For several weeks individual members of the Tippecanoe Club have been desirous of having the members thereof go to the Chicago convention in a body in the interest of General Harrison, and in order that the movement might be gotten under headway the executive committee of the organization met in the Mayor's court-room yesterday afternoon to take some initial steps. It was the opinion of all those present that the club should, by all means, attend the convention, and a resolution was passed calling a meeting for next Monday afternoon at the same place, when the arrangements for the trip will be perfected. Every member of the club voted for William Henry Harrison, the General's grandfather, for President, in 1840, and the members think it would be not only a unique but a wise thing for them to go to Chicago. Whatever arrangements may be made, however, in regard to this matter, the majority of the members of the club are anxious to go. They hope, though, to be able to go as a body. As all of them are well along in years, and some are quite infirm, all of the 200 members cannot attend unless special arrangements are made for their comfort while at the convention. Many are not financially able to make the trip, either; but it is believed friends of the club will assist in defraying their expenses. "The Tippecanoe Club," said one of the members, yesterday, "we will visit every State delegation, and with Dick Thompson, of Terre Haute, as our spokesman, will urge the cause of General Harrison. Men who have been as loyal to the Republican party as we have should have some influence. The members of the executive committee desire a full attendance at the meeting at the same place, as the matter of going will have to be finally determined then."

Republican State Committee.

The Republican State central committee will meet to-night, at the New Denison, to fix the date for the State convention. Managers of the Lincoln League are also to confer with the committee, and candidates are asked to be present.

ASSERTING A PRIOR CLAIM

The Citizens' Street-Railway Stops the Progress of a Prospective Rival.

Short Stretches of Track Laid on Market Street East and West of the Circle to Check the Dudley Company.

There is now a fight on between the Citizens' Street-railway Company, with its existing lines, and the Indianapolis Cable-railway Company, with its one square of unfinished track on Meridian street, between the circle and Washington street. The latter has virtually abandoned its cable project and proposes to lay a track for electric motor, but the charter under which it began work does not grant the use of streets for cars run by electricity. Pending an amendment to its charter conveying this privilege the work on Meridian street was stopped at the request of the Mayor and city attorney, but yesterday afternoon the Citizens' Street-railway Company, in order to reserve its right to the streets, which are included in the charter to the other company, began laying tracks on East and West Market street, those on the latter beginning at Illinois and extending to Tennessee and those on the former starting at Pennsylvania in the direction of Delaware street. On the West Market-street end there were about sixteen laborers and track-layers at work, and on the other section a dozen were busy in tearing up bowlders, placing ties and laying iron. The work was watched by groups of citizens, some of whom button-holed councilmen or other city officers coming that way, and questioned them as to what could or was to be done to stop the work. Others asked after the rights the Citizens' company possessed, while the majority looked about them and commented on the proceedings as their sympathy, judgment or opinion dictated. While the action of the Citizens' company caused a good deal of excitement no one was unduly riotous in his expression, although the prevailing feeling was that it would have been better for the old company to refrain from carrying out its rights in this manner until Council had acted on this proposed amendment to the Indianapolis company's charter. But the Citizens' company was not inclined to wait as its track, whether it lays any more or not in the direction stated, practically blocks the way for the cable company toward Tennessee and Alabama streets and thence its connection with the fair grounds, the objective point, until long litigation settles the controversy that will arise over the matter.

The Mayor and city attorney endeavored to have the work of the Citizens' company stopped and the force of men did so for a few minutes, but were soon driven away. The Mayor, at one time, brought the city Engineer, Mr. Shaffer, of the Citizens' company, whom they hoped to persuade to cease operations, at least until after the next meeting of Council, when the amendment to the Indianapolis company's charter would be considered. Mr. Shaffer could not be found, and the work continued, while repeated consultations went on between the city and the Citizens' company, but while they realized their helplessness to do anything to stop the work. Along in the afternoon Councilman Darnell drove away to try his personal powers on Mr. Shaffer. The councilman is the chairman of the committee on railroads, and said that the Citizens' company had hurt its chances in securing an extension of its charter, and that the Indianapolis company would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 1864 until the limitation of time expired. The Indianapolis company has from now until November to perfect its plan of extension of the cable line, and if it failed to do so, the city would be against the city. City Attorney Taylor thought otherwise, as he interpreted the grant of Market street to the Indianapolis Cable Company for a limited time as repeating that given the Citizens' Railroad Company in its charter of 18